Paperless Office Arrives in Central Florida

“The thought of a paperless office sounded like something from a weird science fiction movie. Well, it’s happening right now and right here in Central Florida”, says Eric Wichhart of ConnectU.

ConnectU is a high tech information computer based organization serving the small to large size businesses in Central Florida. Eric Wichhart, an 18 year computer service professional, is owner of ConnectU.

“We offer gloEMR... I call it ‘software for the paperless doctor’s office’, says a smiling 40 year old Wichhart.

“gloEMR by gloStream – features a voice recognition technology that allows physicians more time to focus on the patient, rather than a chart. Here’s how it works: the physician talks into a portable microphone – sees his or her words turn into words on a patient’s coded screen. The screen is encoded and kept at the doctor’s office and 2 other sites. gloEMR is easy to use and causes better coding and communication with the patient and hospital. The whole system is efficient, plus it’s time and money saving. Best of all, there is no paperwork... no papers to get lost or misfiled. The system is endorsed by various medical organizations, including CCHIT and is being used across the nation. Physicians say that filing patient paperwork is 50% of their day. This tested and proven technology is something that I am extremely proud to offer. ConnectU is the only authorized Central Florida distributor of this unique Electronic Medical Record software featuring voice recognition technology primarily used for doctors offices”.
